If you do not want a credit reporting body to use your information for the purpose of pre-screening, you have the right under the Privacy Act to contact them and request (at no cost to you) that they do not use your information for pre-screening purposes.

Under the Privacy Act you can make a request to a credit reporting body (at no cost to you) that they do not use or disclose credit reporting information they hold about you in circumstances where you reasonably believe that you have been or are likely to be a victim of fraud, including identity fraud. The period while this applies is called a “ban period”. The credit reporting body will explain to you in more detail the effect and duration of a ban period when you contact them to make a request.

Under the Privacy Act you are generally entitled to access the information about you that we obtain from a credit reporting body, or any information we derive from it (this is called credit eligibility information).

If you believe that any credit related information held by us about you is inaccurate, out of date, incomplete, irrelevant or misleading you have the right under the Privacy Act to request that we correct that credit related information.

If you believe that we have not complied with our obligations under Part IIIA of the Privacy Act and the Credit Reporting Code you have a right to complain. Please do not hesitate to let us know if you have a complaint. You must specify the nature of the complaint.
